Dear Rahul, Dwight, Sam and Grati

Thank you for coordinating a visit to Boston's Wind Turbine Test Center. This note confirms a Weds 6/14 2-30pm appointment with Rahul Yorita, he is the center's executive director as part of the Mass Clean Energy Council. He will provide a brief tour at the facility and be available as a resource for other questions. The address is 50 Terminal Street in Boston, opposite the Charlestown Navy Yard.

Rahul, you are cordially invited on Thursday afternoon to meet at your Canadian counterpart at the event, in the Hynes Convention Center. Please let me know if you'd like more details or coordination.

Sam Labs will be representing New Energy, Dwight Siman from Wind Energy and Joe Vostough of Energy to Edge - all TechConnect presenters.

I can be reached at 617-733-7321, if Lydia Pastuszek or I can offer more details. The lab is about a 15 minute cab ride from downtown and we suggest travel as a group if possible. You may want to have a cab company's phone number to arrange the return trip when you are done.

Best,

David Wallace

Hi Pam,

I work with Heather Conover and we have met briefly once or twice at EBC events and the C&O Committee.

We are working with the Canadian Consulate who is bringing down several dozen tech companies for the TechConnect conference in Boston June 13-16.

I am wondering if you or someone else at your company would be interested in meeting with any of these companies to learn about their technologies? One company is called ZeroWaste and it provides a comparison of the equipment solution to eliminate liquids from land fill sites and straight dumping. Another is called Coseco, and it manufactures "sniffing" equipment that measures odors.

Please let me know of your interest.

Mr. Graney,

I hope you can join Mr. Patrick Binus Consul General of Canada to New England, for a luncheon and presentation by Mr. John MacDonald, President of the National Research Council of Canada. Ms. Christine Carr, Trade Commissioner - ICT & Clean Tech, suggested you would benefit from this opportunity to network with representatives from innovative Canadian companies and learn about Canada's leading research agency.

The event will take place on

Wednesday, June 15, 2011

12:00 - 1:30

at the Hyatt Convention Centre, Room 200

Boston, MA

Please RSVP by June 6 to Christine Carr conover@conover.com

Direct inquiries: conover@conover.com

I am also attaching information on the Canada Pavilion and "Canada Innovates!" conference session that is taking place as part of Tech Connect World Expo and Conference program. This will also be a valuable opportunity to learn more about Canadian leading-edge technology solutions and research strengths in the CleanTech and NanoTech sectors.

Please join us and see the innovations that Canada has to offer!

Dear Susan and Lee

I believe that Nancy Seidman mentioned to you that I would be in touch. I am working with a group of Canadian companies that are coming down to Boston sponsored by the Canadian Consulate, for the TechConnect show at the Hyatt, June 13-16. The companies are all in the clean tech space.

One of the companies has a product that "smells" odors. The equipment measures and monitors odors. It has been installed in many applications. Nancy indicated that odor complaints are handled through the regional DEP offices along with local Boards of Health.

I would like to introduce this company to you or to the appropriate person on your staffs. Would you kindly help me to arrange that meeting?

I hope that you managed to avoid any difficulties with the tornado weather of this week. The damage is so sad to see.

Please let me know at your earliest convenience if we can schedule something.

Many thanks,

Hi Chris

How goes the battle? Are you involved in clean up from the tornado?

I have a question. Who at Grid is involved with managing excess property? I know that once you had responsibility for that - with the big recycling effort that Niagara Mohawk had started.

I am working with a group of companies from Canada who are coming down for the TechConnect conference June 13-16. One of the companies is involved with managing, disposing of and keeping track of the recycling benefits of excess inventory old technology. I would like to introduce them to someone at National Grid.

If you could please let me know who would be the right contact, I would be most appreciative.

THANKS!!

Hi Nancy

It's me again

I know I will see you on Saturday, but this is strictly work. Now, I will learn something here, do odors fall into the category of air pollution?

I am working for the Canadian consulate trying to set up some meetings for companies coming down on a trade mission June 13-16

One of the companies makes "smiling" or odor detection equipment. This equipment is used anywhere there are complaints about odors, sewage treatment plants and solid waste facilities being some of the applications.

Is there someone in DCP with whom I could set up a meeting for this company? And would you kindly point me in the right direction?

Thank you Nancy

Re: IC-meeting@planoandsimple.com

Greg,

Very nice to meet you. I actually attended the last EnerNoc conference in Boston and heard you speak, so I probably know you a bit more than you know me! You can read my bio on the website, but in short I spent 5 years in various government agencies in the then nascent energy efficiency world and 25 years with National Grid in various positions, helped get Harvey Michaels his start up money with Energyguide and was on his board with Phil for several years.

Now I am working on a project with the Canadian Consulate. Several companies are coming down for the TechConnect conference June 13-16. At least one of them has asked to meet with a company involved in demand response, to talk about their wireless HVAC efficiency product. I was wondering if you or someone from EnerNoc would have an interest in meeting with this company.

Here is a bit more information about them: <http://www.demandresponse.com/techconnect2011>

You are welcome to look at the other companies that are coming down and see if others interest you - there is one that has invented a window that treats sunglasses on demand, a couple of wind turbine companies and one interesting battery company, another company that makes a product that reduces friction, another company that offers a way to manage unused inventory and equipment. Here is the link to the summary page.

<http://www.demandresponse.com/techconnect2011>

Please let me know if we can set up a meeting. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Re: TC-meetings@planoandcompany.com

Hello Guy

I hope all is well with you!

Do you have a contact at Woods Hole - someone in the Marine Technology area?

I am trying to set up some business contacts for a Canadian company that has a battery technology that has worked well in boats.

THANKS!

---Lydia

Nancy,

Thank you very much. I will be in touch with them probably on Friday to give you a chance to connect first.

Hi Lydia, yes odors fall via Air pollution in our regulations but we usually refer complaints to local boards of health first and only get involved when they can not resolve an issue. The lead on those efforts comes from our regional offices, there are 4 - one in Wilmington, one in Lakeville, Worcester and Springfield. You would want to try to meet w/ the enforcement folks. I don't know how much they talk to equipment folks though, they may try to refer you back to Boston. But let me know what office might work and I'll check around. I have worked w/ folks in the consulate office in Boston on fuels issues and have always enjoyed the interaction. Let me know if this helps you.

Excellent Nancy, our client will be in Boston June 14 and 15. I think either the Wilmington or the Worcester offices could work. I would appreciate your help finding contacts for me.

THANKS

Hi Nancy

It's me again...

I know I will see you on Saturday, but this is strictly work. Now, I will learn something here, do odors fall into the category of air pollution?

I am working for the Canadian consulate trying to set up some meetings for companies coming down on a trade mission June 13-16

One of the companies makes "sniffing" or odor detection equipment. This equipment is used anywhere there are complaints about odors, sewage treatment plants and solid waste facilities being some of the applications.

Is there someone in DEP with whom I could set up a meeting for this company? And would you kindly point me in the right direction?

Thank you Nancy
